Clean Journey	Sales Specialist	In this role you will have unlimited opportunity to make your mark and build a large cache of new business. The possibility for income generation is also unlimited. The key to success for any excellent salesperson is to leverage relationships on a consultative basis - and this is exactly what the Clean Journey product and service offering provides. In addition, for growth it is important that there are increased levels or tiers of client participation so the sale can continue to grow for each client. Clean Journey is built to also provide this. Our clients are start-up companies to billion dollar organizations - and it is all business to business. To succeed to the highest levels, our sales people will be outstanding client managers who can root out client needs by filling those needs with Clean Journey products and services. Obviously, being a student of these offerings will help in ensuring that success, as well as a keen understanding of the companies and business sectors that you approach for potential clients. The possibility for growth is immense - and although Clean Journey is a new company - our services are on the cutting edge and will attract an interested audience - making introductions and lead development a bit less of a challenge... We in this role you will be working business to business to build our relationships with affiliates and co-branding types of possibilities. You'll probably be pretty seasoned at doing t his type of work and comfortable talking with 'C' level execs about business deals and marriages. There is a probability that you would also do a bit of selling of our services to directly clients - but after we establish our brand and niche in the market - this activity would be greatly diminished and working deals and building the Clean Journey brand through partnerships and affiliates would be the key activity.	Market Research, Product Management, Sales
Clean Journey	Business Development Specialist	This is obviously a key role where you will blend your technical expertise in Internet Content Management tools with your eye to web design. We are very aware that both roles aren't mutually found together in one person - but also know that somewhere out there you exist! We have built our homegrown site using rudimentary tools - and have spent most of our funds on database, search, client dashboard and user registration tools. We need a technologist that can work with our established contract programmers to patch together various software packages and make them work. We built the site in DNN originally due to ease of use for non technical people (us) and have incorporated some C# and ASP.Net too. We are wedded to none of it - and hope to move to a web platform that is more robust as we grow...yes we know not ideal - but we love a challenge!! We have BIG plans for the technical side with a lot of ideas that are only waiting for the right person to help us implement - and an 'open book' to new ideas that will take us beyond our own meager imaginations... Would love the person to be in the Boston area, but realize that it doesn't have to be - we do have phones and internet connections....)	Business Analyst, Business Development, Sales
Clean Journey	Internet Technologist - Content Management Specialist		Business Analyst, Design, Information Systems

COMPANY NAME	PROJECT TITLE	PROJECT DESCRIPTION:	SKILLS SOUGHT
Clean Journey	Social Media Marketing Specialist	OK - how many of the thousands of you out there can do this??? It seems that everyone is an SMM professional these days - but when it comes to Community Development using different social networking sites as a platform - there is an obvious reason why (need I say 200MM people on Facebook...). We're looking for an 'all in' approach that marries SMM with classic marketing techniques to build a community for Clean Journey. We feel that we have marked out the ground well with our concept and focus (Green Economy), but really need someone that sees the whole landscape with a curious perspective of what is possible...and what to shoot for!! With changes and advances coming every month, week and day - its critical to keep on the edge of what can be accomplished. Everyone is seeking a community of users - we need to break through that clutter and make a difference. We hope to find a SMM expert that can show us the way!! Is that you? Like all of our openings - we would love that person to be local to the Boston marketplace - but certainly realize that the communication we have is up to the challenge for a person from anywhere...	Business Analyst, Marketing, Writing & Communications
Clean Journey	Business Journalist and Media Specialist	This is a key role for Clean Journey where you will use all of your creativity, writing, and media (video, etc.) ability to tell a unique story of each Clean Tech company and the industry as a whole. The object is to make it fun and interesting and different than anything found anywhere else - yes - a tall order (particularly for business), but we have crafted 30 different 'angles' to consider for story ideas and only need someone to come and run with the ball - hopefully finding a destination that we haven't even considered as of yet!! This is a great opportunity to make something special and we will provide all the autonomy to make it happen! Ideally we would like to see our staff (Boston based would be great), but with extensive video conferencing capabilities - its not a deal breaker... At Clean Journey we work with Clean Tech companies and build them Talent Communities to highlight why they are a great place to consider for an immediate or future career move. We build them by helping to populate their Talent Community with people interested in the Green Economy. Also, in some cases these companies want us to populate their Communities with people with specific skills. Our Internet Research Specialist will have a big role in supporting this effort (and many others too). In this role you will use all of your knowledge of the internet and search skills to uncover various groups of people, clubs, companies, associations for Advanced Internet Networking. Your strong understanding and use of Social Networks will help you to advance our knowledge of opportunities (Linked In, Zoom, Facebook, Jigsaw, Pimple, GreaseMonkey are some of the typical sites you will make use of in this role...). In addition to working on the Talent Community Program, the Internet Research Specialist will also be very involved with our Marketing initiatives providing marketing research for a huge host of mission critical projects involving universities, media, blogosphere, VC's, private equity, government agencies, and many more. If you are somewhat of a sleuth with benevolent 'hacking' skills you would be great at this role. Most importantly - we like to	Business Analyst, Writing & Communications

This service, much like Mint.com for finances, empowers customers with knowledge about their teams to make informed decisions in an efficient manner. We also are creating a patent pending recommendation engine for fantasy sports customers. Professional Brand Incubation and Development The consumer products industry is shifting across the globe. New advances in technology and science allow both incredible breakthroughs in product development and the channels through which new products are brought to market. As the products themselves evolve, so does their marketing. Digital channels of distribution have proven to be an extremely effective method of bringing preventive healthcare and fitness products into the forefronts of consumers' minds. Online advertising helps brands build one-to-one consumer relationships that can be fostered and grown with care over time. The direct marketing revolution has hit the internet. Hungry Fish Media was founded in 2009 by two Harvard graduates in order to take advantage of these paradigm shifts. Creativity, rigorous testing and reliance upon the most advanced technologies available fuel both our product development efforts and our advertising methodologies. Hungry Fish combines an interactive advertising agency with in-house brand creation and impeccable customer service, allowing seamless development, marketing and support of our products. These connected processes allow for rapid brand building, empowered consumers, and ultimately, millions of satisfied customers.	Software Engineering

We are still early in our startup process and we try to stay away from angels or VCs for as long as possible. We have a 'no resume' and 'no interview' policy because resumes and interviews have no real value. They can't provide an accurate method of identifying a matching and mutually beneficial professional relationship. Tell us your story and show us your passions and interests. We'll then use one or more micro projects to figure out if this is something you are truly interested in and if we can have a mutually beneficial working relationship. We don't care if you don't have any formal experience. You can even be in kindergarten, but if you have talent and passion we'll want to work with you :) This can be your chance to break the vicious cycle where companies demand formal experience, but you can't have it unless you work for a company in the required field. Alternatively this can be a chance to explore	Software Engineering

ProNeuros		Rate It Green (www.rateitgreen.com) is an online resource for everyone interested in green building. The site hosts a peer-review based green building product and service directory where companies create profiles and list their products and services. Clients who have used these products and services can then post testimonials and share their experiences with the wider community. (See company profile for full description.) I have three top goals for Rate It Green I am pleased to share: *Create the largest directory of green building products and services * all green building products and services are welcome *Offer experience-based testimonials so that individuals and organizations can make buying decisions more confidently *Create an open portal where everyone in the green building community can ask and answer each other's questions, and organize conversations by topics of interest These are lofty goals, but I am very excited that with our recent complete programming revision we finally have our foundation set. As we continue to grow and develop this portal, I firmly believe that we can have a significant impact on the amount of available green building information as well as the industry itself.
