AudioTripper	AudioTripper 2.010	In 2008, AudioTripper launched with a library of over 100+ site-specific self guided audio tours. Now we are looking to build on that foundation by rapidly growing sales, and developing a more robust offering that will include dynamic content and delivery platforms. To accomplish these goals, we are expanding our team. We are particularly interested in individuals with strong backgrounds in sales and business development. Those with passion for and knowledge of web and media technologies are encouraged to let us know. The risk-averse need not apply! We are true entrepreneurs working for sweat equity.
Autoslash	Looking for a smart, focused, tech savvy individual for project work	This is an opportunity for the right individual to get in on the ground floor of a startup that intends to shake up the online rental car industry. Currently the industry consists of a multitude of 'me too' sites that offer little to no value to the consumer. Autoslash intends to roll out unique functionality that will guarantee consumers that they are getting the best possible deal. The company consists of a small cadre of individuals who have a proven track record in the online travel space. We are in development mode currently and expect to launch the first iteration of our site in the next month or so. These projects include web design, copywriting, editorial, research, user experience/interface work, testing, etc. We are currently looking for someone part-time, but hope it to evolve into an eventual full-time position. The job is perfect for someone who is looking for something challenging on the side or someone still in school, but graduating this year. The right candidate must be able to commit around 15-20 hours a week working from home or other remote location. If you're someone who feels at home with technology, can juggle 10 projects simultaneously and would love to be a founding employee of an exciting web startup, then we'd love to hear from you.

QuestionsForColleges.com Sand Hill Research Partners Scarpasa LLC	Publicize and manage a scholarship contest.	Many colleges ask their applicants to answer four essay questions. We wish to turn the tables. Every year we will ask colleges to go on record with honest answers to four insightful questions. In order to identify good questions, we will be running a scholarship contest. To win a scholarship, you need not answer a question; you need only think up a good question that deserves an answer. We want to launch the contest on March 1st 2010 with winners announced on June 1, 2010. We would like help in all aspects of this project: publicity, viral marketing, journalism, web-site design, graphic artists, judging winning entries, business development, etc. We do not have a revenue model yet, and we do not offer compensation other than experience. We are only interested in people who think this is a worthy project in its own right. It is possible this will evolve into a profitable business; we can imagine a website supported by advertising, an annual college guide, etc. Or it may evolve into a non-profit. We have no idea; we're doing this simply because we see a need. Sand Hill RP provides advisory services to firms seeking capital and strategic M&A, divestiture, and IPO guidance
